What is the Citizens' Public Safety Academy?

The City of Woodstock Citizens' Public Safety Academy (CPSA) is a collaborative effort between the police and fire departments where, together, they will be engaging in a series of educational classes designed to enhance the citizen's understanding of various aspects of both departments. The program is intended to strengthen the relationship between the citizens, the police and fire departments while spotlighting the public safety personnel's responsibility and inherent risks associated with the professions. Classes are instructed by public safety officials and staff where various classes will be offered such as: Police & Fire Operations, Criminal Investigations, Domestic Violence, Fire Response to Accident Scenes, Police Use of Force, Fire Prevention & Education, as well as tours of public safety facilities.

Who is eligible to apply?

Anyone who lives, works, or has an expressed interest in the City of Woodstock may apply for the Citizens' Public Safety Academy. Applicants are required to be at least 19 years of age and submit to a background check prior to acceptance into the program. Once accepted, positions are filled on a first come, first serve basis.

When should I apply?

We are currently accepting applications for the Spring 2019 class. The first class will be held on Thursday, February 28, 2019 and will continue to meet every Thursday thereafter with the final class being Thursday, May 16, 2019. Classes will be held at the Chambers at City Center in downtown Woodstock, the Woodstock Police Department, or the Woodstock Fire Department (varies), from 6:30 p.m. until 8:30 p.m, unless changed for special presentations.

Applications are due no later than February 25, 2019 in order to be considered for the class.
